

Video Library

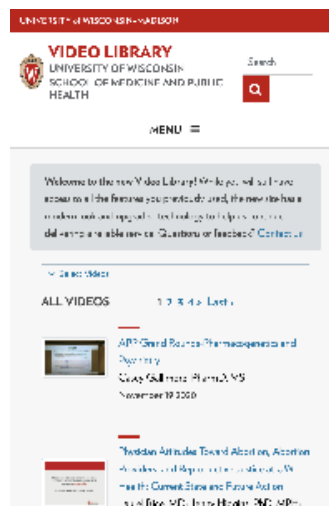

The Video Library is a secure repository for Lecture Capture, Enduring Learning Objects, and other educational videos for UW Health Sciences Students. You can access the application at <https://videos.med.wisc.edu/>.

The New Video Library

The new Video Library adopts the standard UW style and now looks like many of the other websites and applications you use on campus.

It has a responsive design that is easier to use on tablets and smartphones.

Additional playback speed options are available in the settings menu of the video player.

Do physician attitudes matter?

- Doctors are trusted cultural figures
 - More than politicians, lawyers, and clergy members
- Doctors' own attitudes can influence public's understanding
- Gap – Doctors' attitudes about abortion are not well understood outside women's health circles
